

Virus Throttling (Connection-Rate Filtering): A virus-throttling configuration on the switch does not affect switch resources unless traffic behavior has triggered either a throttling or blocking action on the traffic from one or more clients. When the throttling action ceases or a blocked client is unblocked, the resources used for that action are released.